

Moody Industrial

Industrial style has been around for some time now – but, thanks to its versatility and strong appeal, it is one that's here to stay.

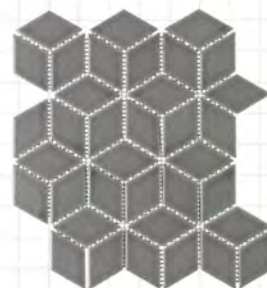

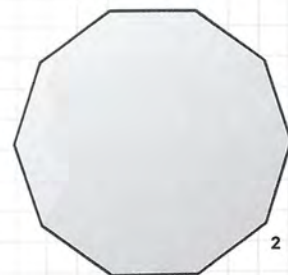

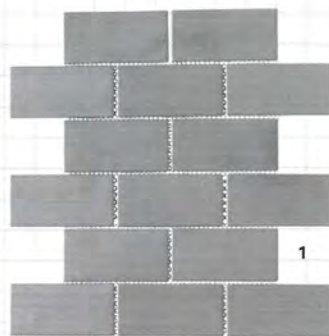

Design info

One of the strengths of this look is the ability to engage the eye and brain with a variety of materials. Industrial-style bathrooms often feature concrete floors and walls, wood, glass and sleek metal surfaces, even exposed brick.

These grey concrete floor tiles (7) with their edgy 'scratched' finish are a good starting point for this scheme. Depending on your budget, you could continue the tiles up to walls or paint the walls in a complementary grey. A feature wall, perhaps behind the vanity and mirror, in either stainless-steel brick tiles (1) or black or grey subway tiles are also typical of this look.

Another option for a feature tile is a grey 'cube' tile (9), a geo design that's very on-trend right now. A geometric mirror (2) and caged pendant light used in conjunction with this tile would create a stunning look. In terms of lighting, two glass wall lamps (3) would look superb teamed with a simple square mirror above the vanity.

To soften a grey scheme, consider introducing a pastel, such as mint, through wire baskets (12), towels or artwork (10). For accessories, numbers or typography are commonly seen in industrial design and can be included via a framed print, storage bags (5) or towels. A leaning ladder for hanging towels is worth considering if you are not a fan of heated towel rails.

1 Brushed stainless steel brick, 50x100mm, $25 per sheet, from Tile Space. 2 Flynn geo mirror, $399, from Shut The Front Door. 3 Depot light, $255, from Ico Traders. 4 Valencia wall-hung, scorched-oak timber-look vanity, 750mm, $871, from Englefield. 5 Square canvas basket, $299, from greenwithenvy.co.nz. 6 Crest Lacuna stone alcove shower, 1200x1000mm, $4529, from Mico Bathrooms. 7 Graffiti Anthracite matte 600x600mm tile, $199.50 a square metre, from Tile Space. 8 Caroma noir freestanding bath, $2109, from Mico Bathrooms. 9 Cube grey gloss mosaic tile, $9.50 per sheet, from Tile Space. 10 Architecture framed print in mint, $429, from Shut The Front Door. 11 Nova basin mixer, $376, from felton.co.nz. 12 General Eclectic shop baskets, from $45, from Shut The Front Door.